

TRULY A CHOSEN PEOPLE.— At the present time, there is not a single Jewish family in the city who has applied to either of our charitable associations, or to the overseers of the poor for relief. This is a feather in the caps of the children of Israel, for it is a proof not only of their industry and independence, but of their charity to each other; for that there are some needy families of that persuasion is certain, but their more affluent brethren do not allow them to go abroad to seek relief. — *Cin.
