

MATTERS MATRIMONIAL.

The Nuptials of Miss Minnie Clayburgh and Mr. Benjamin H. Mayer—Marriage Ceremony of Miss Martha Johnson and Mr. Alonzo C. Mather.

CLAYBURGH-MAYER.

A magnificent wedding, and one of considerable importance in the Jewish society of this city, occurred at Standard Hall yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the celebration of the nuptials of Miss Minnie Clayburgh, daughter of Mr. M. Clayburgh, of the well-known firm of Clayburgh, Einstein & Co., and Mr. Benjamin H. Mayer, a prominent New Yorker. About 5 o'clock the bridal party entered the parlors in the following order: Masters Albert, Maurice, and Harry Clayburgh, all brothers of the bride; Miss Nettie Mayer, of Hartford, sister of the groom, and Master Josie Clayburgh, brother of the bride; Miss Annie Mayer and Mr. Simon Mayer, sister and brother of the groom; Miss Ida Clayburgh, sister of the bride, and Mr. Bath Mayer, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. D. Mayer, of Hartford, Conn., parents of the groom; Mrs. M. Clayburgh, the mother of the bride, leaning on the arm of the groom, followed by the beautiful bride, supported by her father. The party arranging themselves in a tasteful manner, the couple were then made man and wife in accordance with the manner of the Rev. Dr. Adler, of the E. A. M. congregation. The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives and intimate acquaintances of the family, and after a short reception, the bridal party led the way to the supper-room. Here was found a sumptuous spread of substantial, and the delicacies of the season. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, and crowded with ornamental dishes, the product of the epicurian art. The presents were necessarily numerous and characteristically elegant and costly.

The reception commenced at 8 o'clock, and after the bride had received the many congratulations of her friends, the assemblage retired to the hall above, and here ensued a gay scene of wedding merriment and happiness. The costumes were elegant, even magnificent, and all costly. The bride was dressed in a superb robe of white satin, profusely trimmed with heavy fringe of the same shade, satin folds, and garlands of orange blossoms and point lace; the bridal veil was clasped with a neat coronet of orange blossoms.

Miss Ida Clayburgh, the first bridesmaid, was elegantly attired in a dress of white silk and tulle, profusely garnished with forget-me-nots; ornaments of pearl and diamonds.

Miss Annie Mayer appeared pretty in a combination suit of blue gros-grain silk and garnet velvet, with ornaments of diamonds.

Miss Nettie Mayer was attired in a pretty dress of cream-white silk, trimmed with illusion and forget-me-nots.

Mrs. M. Clayburgh, the mother of the bride, was dressed in an elegant costume of black gros-grain silk, trimmed with lace; diamond ornaments.

Mrs. D. Mayer, of Hartford, the mother of the groom, was richly attired in a blue velvet brocade overdress, with diamond ornaments.

Mrs. A. F. Leopold, the sister of the bride, was dressed in a rich costume of black brocade, trimmed with black lace and cardinal and drab satin ribbons. She was accompanied by the two little grandchildren of Mr. Clayburgh, the Misses Clara and Blanche Leopold, both of whom received much attention during the evening.

Mrs. Max Edenheim, nee Kahn, was attired in white satin, trimmed with orange blossoms; ornaments of gold and silver.

Mrs. J. Horner, nee Kahn, was dressed in white satin and silk, trimmed with quantities of orange blossoms and violets; diamonds.

Miss Nellie Kahn wore an elaborately trimmed dress of light blue gros-grain silk.

Miss Helen Leopold was attired in a rich combination costume of blue silk and garnet velvet.

Miss Carrie Kuhn wore a pretty dress of blue-striped silk grenadine, trimmed with flowers.

Miss Rose Einstein was elegantly attired in a lavender silk, trimmed with blush roses and natural flowers.

Miss Hannah Kuhn wore a handsome garment of combination blue silk and plum-colored velvet.

Miss Bertha Selz wore a tasteful combination suit of blue silk and black velvet.

Miss Augusta Foreman looked pretty in a canary silk, tastefully trimmed.

A select programme of dances was prepared for the guests, who later in the evening partook of another elegant supper, after which the festivities were resumed. Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kohn, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. A. Kohn, of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. M. Clayburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart, Mr. and Mrs. A. Frenkle, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Leopold, Mr. and Mrs. Max Ederheimer, nee Kohn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Homer, nee Kohn, Mr. and Mrs. S. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. D. Adler, Mrs. H. Horner, Mr. and Mrs. S. Yendorf, Mrs. S. M. Kohn, Miss Ida Clayburgh, Misses Annie and Nettie Mayer, of Hartford; Miss Nellie Kohn, Miss Lina Kaim, of Fond du Lac; Miss Bertha Selz, Miss Carrie Kohn, Miss Augusta Foreman, Miss Helen Leopold, Miss Rose Einstein, Miss Hannah Kohn, Miss Rose Fuller, Miss Dora Kohn, Miss Jennie Rosenfeld, Miss Laura Snyder, Misses Dora and Clara Kohn, Miss Kitty Traynor, Misses Carrie and Etta Kohn, Miss Bria, Miss Rose Miller, Miss Tillie Foreman, Miss Dollie Simons, Miss Rose Kohn, Messrs. J. Ballinburg, S. Mayer, B. H. Mayer, of New York; Arthur Arnold, Joseph Clayburgh, J. Traynor, L. Kaepfenheimer, J. C. Stettheimer, M. Adams, of New York; George Leopold, B. Einstein, H. Sachs, of New York; S. Ettlinger, A. Snyder, A. F. Leopold, I. H. Kohn, W. Lieber, L. H. Kohn, W. X. Rothschild, S. Rosenfeld, H. A. Kohn, M. Selz, and many others. Mr. S. Schultz officiated as master of ceremonies, and was ably assisted by the ushers Messrs. J. C. Stettheimer and J. S. Baer.

JOHNSON-MATHER.

A quiet, but withal an elegant, wedding was celebrated last night in the Egyptian parlors of the Palmer House, the happy contracting parties being Miss Martha Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Johnson, of Oconomowoc, and Mr. Alonzo C. Mather, one of Chicago's most prominent young merchants. Shortly before 6 o'clock the bridal party entered the parlors, and arrayed themselves in front of the minister, the Rev. Robert Collyer, of the Unity Church, who united the happy couple in the usual impressive manner. The bride was elegantly attired in a wedding costume of white satin, a la princesse, trimmed with lace and garniture of orange blossoms; the long bridal veil, tastefully caught by a wreath of orange blossoms, completed the toilet. She was accompanied by Miss Kittie Johnson, sister of the bride, and Miss Nellie Egan, both of whom were tastefully dressed in white silk and tulle, trimmed with garniture of orange blossoms.

A short reception followed the ceremony, during which the newly-wed couple were the recipients of many earnest well-wishes from the friends present. The wedding supper, which was spread in the dining parlors was an elaborate affair, as are all such events when prepared under the personal supervision of Warren Leland. The wedding presents were many and costly, embracing a few rare bits of the painter's art, not to mention the usual array of gold and silver articles of use and ornament. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mather left last night on an extended wedding tour. In deference to the wishes of the interested parties, the list of guests and presents are left unnoted.