

NO FRIEND ON EARTH.

THE POOR FELLOW WHO WAS SHOT AT POLINSKY'S DIED AT ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL YESTERDAY.

The man who was accidentally shot in Polinsky's second hand store Tuesday afternoon by the discharge of a revolver, died at St. Mary's hospital yesterday forenoon.

Dr. Magie, who had charge of the case, told the man that he probably would die and that if he had any friends or relatives he had better notify them.

"I have no one in the world," was the reply. "I am just a common tramp. I might as well die as live." So the poor fellow died.

His name was given as John O'Connor, but he told Dr. Magie he had several names. He said, however, that his real name was Jeremiah Horam. He had the appearance of one who had seen all the seamy sides of life and had possibly been under the law's strong hand more than once.
