Clerk of the municipal court Ross was greatly in evidence about the city hall yesterday with a box of cigars in his hand and a glad smile on his face. An 11-pound girl arrived at his home the night before.

Alexander McLeod, the 13-year-old boy, who fractured his skull Saturday afternoon by falling through a hatch on the steamer Jay Gould died at St.
Mary's hospital yesterday noon, not having regained consciousness. His mother, a widow, lives at 318 East Sixth street. The dead boy is her eldest child. Alexander was a member of the Sunday school at the First Methodist church and was well liked. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

The barbers of Duluth and Superior took an outing yesterday at Fond du Lac. They left early on the steamer Blöomer Girl. A large crowd attended and they had a good time.

Callers at the United States court offices in the federal building yesterday were sadly reminded of the sudden death of Robert G. Evans, United States district attorney, by finding crepe on the door of his office, while the desk and chair used by him when on business in the city, were also draped in mourning. Mr. Evans was a very popular official at the government building, and had a warm place in the hearts of all the attaches.

Kennedy entertained at Lester Park last night. The evening was pleasantly passed with dancing.

A. B. Slewert & Co. are busy getting ready for their fall opening of Dunlap hats, which will occur on Thursday of this week. They predict a good hat season generally from the fact that a great many straw hats were worn in Duluth during the season.
