Walter J. Cayo, of Duluth, has been discharged from bankruptcy.

Frank Spurbeck yesterday received a letter from his brother Dave, who settled in the Geneseo valley in Idaho a few years ago. He reports that he harvested 45 bushels of wheat an acre and 70 bushels of barley, which he says is about the average yield in that section this year.

The local customs office reports that Canadian wheat is beginning to move fast now, and the daily receipts are rapidly increasing. The yield in Manitoba this year is said to be unusually heavy. Deputy Collector Linderberg reports that he learned that one farmer near Winnipeg threshed out 60 bushels of wheat an acre in a small tract.

Hope church is making preparations for the celebration of their annual harvest festival.

B. J. and M. S. Cook have formed a co-partnership under the firm name of Cook Bros., and will engage in the hide, felt and fur business at 14 West Michigan street. Mr. B. J. Cook has been in the clothing business in Duluth for years. His new venture will in no way interfere with his clothing store.

A report of the commissioners appointed to make a partition of the estate of the late Henry F. Miller filed their report with Judge Bonham of the probate court yesterday. The administration of the estate began June 2, 1899. The estate foots up about $16,600. The widow, Mrs. Sophia A. Miller, receives one-third and the balance is equally divided between Lucy R. Hanson, the estate of Florence Miller and Fred A. Miller.

Second papers were granted H. A. Michaelson in the county clerk's office yesterday.

Louis P. Gallagher, the photographer, and Miss Mary Eva Litken, the latter of Duluth, were married last evening at the home of Mr. Gallagher, 414 East Third street, Dr. A. W. Ryan officiating. Miss Emily Gallagher was bridesmaid and Albert Kirby best man. A wedding supper and reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher left for Minneapolis last night at 11:10 and will pass two weeks of the honeymoon in that city. Mr. Gallagher is a prosperous and popular young man and Miss Litken is a charming young lady.

Captain J. W. Miller of the health department did not receive a single official report of a birth or death yesterday. This, he says, is quite a remarkable thing. One death was reported but that case had been officially disposed of Tuesday, so Captain Miller said it didn't count. "And, by the way," he continued, "this particular death was singular in itself. Daniel Forsyth of 323 Fifty-eighth avenue West, died of cholera morbus, at the age of 71 years. I have been in this office three years and I do not recall of a single case aside from this one of where a person died of that malady. It is a very rare one, to result fatally at least, in this city."

W. E. Neal, a Grand Rapids hustler, was in the city last evening. He reports business as fair in Itasca's capital, but says farming and stock raising are not increasing to the extent that the good of the county requires, especially as logging and lumbering are on the decline. Mr. Neal says that work on the paper mill is progressing. The walls are up and the roof on. Workmen are engaged on the dam and the mill probably will be ready for business some time in the winter.
