After That They Fell Down—Dancing Completed the Evening's Entertainment.

The Company A and the high school indoor baseball teams played a very fast game at the Armory last night, and the four hundred and fifty people who witnessed it got fully the worth of their money. The soldier boys won by a score of seven to four, but it was anybody's game up to the eighth inning.

In fact, the students seemed to have the best of it until then, and those who wore the high school colors were loud in their applause and enthusiasm. During the first seven innings the wearers of the blue succeeded in scoring only twice, but in the eighth they took a brace, and four men crossed the home plate. This decided the game, and another tally was added in the ninth, for luck.

The game was very evenly played, with the exception of the eighth inning, and was distinguished by good steady work.

Before the game, Manager Sattler, of the Freimuth Indoor Baseball club, challenged the winners.

After the game there was an informal dance, which was attended by most of those who witnessed the baseball game. Music was furnished by Flaaten's orchestra and dancing was indulged in until after midnight. The event was altogether highly successful, and was greatly enjoyed by those in attendance.
