

POPULAR JEWISH MAID IS WEDDED

Miss Cook Becomes the Bride of Albert Goodman, of St. Paul.

Miss Henrietta Cook and Albert Goodman were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ida Cook, on Second avenue east, last night. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock by Rabbi Mendel Silber assisted by Rabbi Tipples. Mrs. H. Y. Josephs sang "For Eternity" just before the bridal party entered the parlor to the strain's of Lohengrin's Nuptial chorus played by Flaaten's orchestra.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Josephs, as matron of honor and her bridesmaids were Miss Hatti Shapiro, Miss Estelle Levy, Miss Della Finklestein and Miss Maymie Gittleson. The groomsman was Louis Goodman and the ushers were Louis Zalk, Julius Cook, S. Y. Josephs, and B. J. Cook. The flower girls were two little maids, Sylvia Josephs and Itay Cook.

Miss Cook wore a handsome gown of white crepe de chene. Her veil was caught with a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Josephs was gowned in white satin trimmed with Irish point. Miss Levy was gowned in white mull and Miss Gittleson wore white crepe de chene. Miss Finklestein and Miss Shapiro wore imported gowns of blue.

The decorations were in green and white, evergreen and roses being used. The gifts to the ushers were diamond stick pins and to the bridesmaids, handsomely bound books of poetry.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman left on the midnight train for the south and will be gone six weeks. When they return they will live at St. Paul where Mr. Goodman is engaged in the wholesale jewelry business.

The out of town guests were Messrs. and Mesdames L. Nathan, Jacob Bernstein, Albert Shapiro, Mrs. M. Shapiro, Mrs. I. Jacobs, Miss Delia Finklestein, Miss Rae Finklestein, Miss Hattie Shapiro, Morris Goodman, Louis Finklestein, Harry Goodman, of St. Paul; Miss Lillian Cook, of Chicago; Miss Rose Cohn, A. Cohn and Isadore Cohn, of Superior.
