WILL TREAT THE CAUSE.
THE WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE is about to carry into effect the theory already adopted by some of the courts of this country that the parent or guardian is the one to be punished when children are delinquent. A bill which has already passed the assembly and is now before the judiciary committee of the senate, will aid greatly in the reclamation of that class of children who are treading the path that leads to ruin, by reason of environment and lack of home training, or wrong training.

The bill is supported by several associations for the betterment of conditions surrounding the young and by the judges before whom juvenile cases are brought. It received the enthusiastic support of Judge Neely of the juvenile court of Milwaukee, who appeared before the assembly committee in support of the bill.

The measure, destined to be a force in the reclamation of children in Wisconsin, is as follows:
 Section 1. In all cases where any child shall be a delinquent child, as defined by the statutes of this state, the parent or parents, legal guardian, or person having the custody of such child, or any other person, responsible for the delinquency, or by any act willfully encouraging, causing or contributing to the delinquency of such child, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon trial and conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not to exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000), or imprisoned in the county jail for a period not exceeding one (1) year, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment. The court may impose such conditions upon any person found guilty under this act, and so long as such person shall comply therewith to the satisfaction of the court the sentence imposed may be suspended; provided, however, that no such sentence or the execution thereof shall be stayed to exceed a period of two years, and if at the expiration of the stay of such sentence, or at such time prior thereto as the court may deem proper, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that such person has complied faithfully with the conditions of such suspended sentence, the court may suspend such sentence absolutely, in which case such person shall be relieved therefrom.

At first glance the law sounds drastic, but it is not. The negligent parent or guardian is given a chance to do better. As the reader will observe it is within the discretion of the court to grant a stay of proceedings pending the manifestation of a determination on the part of the offender to reform.

 This measure will reach a class of parents who are disposed to unload all responsibility for the government and training of their children upon the schools and the police. The illogical plan of punishing or segregating the children without bringing the parents to book aggravates the evil but enforcement of the Wisconsin statute will give the courts a lever whereby they will be able in good time to treat causes and not symptoms. The possibility of a heavy fine or a term in jail will be a great awakener to many a careless parent.

A MOVEMENT WITH A MEANING.
THE NUMBER of land companies incorporated since the first of January is significant. There are more than forty of them and their capital ranges from $10,000 to $500,000; the grand total being well up in the millions. The larger companies are located in Duluth and the Twin Cities, but some of them have their corporate headquarters in the smaller cities of the state.

These companies will do business chiefly in the northern part of the state simply because this section offers the best opportunities, with its good lands at low prices.
 The organization of these many new companies, with an immense aggregate capital, is significant because it means that shrewd business men accustomed to looking into the future anticipate a rapid development of the agricultural territory of northern Minnesota from this time on. They expect an ever increasing inquiry for northern Minnesota lands and are determined to be early on the ground to meet it.
 They have noted the determination of the northern counties to invite settlers and they propose not only to avail themselves of this publicity but to help it along. Some of these companies may be weak, but the fittest will survive and in the final analysis they will all "help some."

ANOTHER INVASION.
THE YANKEE COUSINS are "invading" England from a new point of advance. They are introducing American "style" and "smartness." Correspondents aver that the Englishwoman is undergoing a sort of evolution in this regard. She is looting after her boots, her gowns and her figure. She is no longer smiling with contempt at the dash and spirit of her Yankee cousin's makeup, but strives to imitate it.
 The evolution has progressed so far that the British clubman can no longer sit in his club window and spot the American woman as she passes in the throng. Her English sister is beginning to look just like her.
 Now for the reason. It is not that the English gentlemen are willing to admit that their own wholesome manner of dress was less desirable than the swagger attire of the woman of America and France, but they suddenly discovered that they were not holding their own. The eligible young men of the "light little isle" were falling into the habit of looking westward across the billowy brine for their mates when it came time to marry.
 The English maids decided that there was something more than a financial basis for this, for verily English damsels of great wealth were ignored. It must be "style," then, that attracted the men and they acted accordingly. Hereafter the American woman who visits London will have to carry her smartest frocks. Her cousin across the water is armed to repel invaders and will be just as chic and all that sort of thing as the nieces of Uncle Sam who come over on conquest bent.

This evolution is a victory in itself for the women of America and a fine thing for the London dressmakers as well.
CONGRESS ITSELF TO BLAME.
THE SUM AND SUBSTANCE of the matter is that the president and Secretary Taft refuse to assume the responsibility of making the Panama canal cost more than it should unless congress so commands.
 Hence the order to purchase supplies for the construction of the canal, pending instructions from congress, in the markets of the world. There is no intention to "load up" with foreign made goods; no disposition to disturb the government's fixed policy of protection to American manufactures.
 The effect of this move has been apparent in a disposition on the part of the trusts to "take their feet out of the trough" and meet competition.
 The "standpaters" should have protested last winter when congress was in session; rather they should have caused congress to express itself on this subject. Last January the secretary of war reported to the president on Panama canal affairs and raised this very point of the purchase of supplies. He invited action by congress as to whether such purchases should be confined to the American market or made wherever it could be done to the best advantage. Congress declined to act—ignored the subject entirely.

Certain leaders are now suddenly solicitous for the welfare of the American manufacturers and greatly concerned for the integrity of the principle of protection. The president decided that pending instructions from congress, it was the duty of the commission to hasten the work as rapidly as possible and carry it on as economically as feasible. To have waited for the building of American ships and the manufacture of other material at home would have meant delay and unnecessary expense. The president would have been severely criticized for both the delay and the expense. Congress should have attended to this matter when it had the opportunity.
 The final decision of congress on this subject can be made next winter and meanwhile but a very small share of the supplies will have been purchased.

 The Cass Lake Times pays its respects to Pinchot in these terms: "Gifford Pinchot, Chief Forester, U. S. A. Mr. Pinchot must earn his salary, he has already earned the contempt of every loyal Minnesotan in his zeal to defraud the settler of a home."

CAUGHT ON THE RUN.
 Capt. J. V. Tuttle, a widely known Cleveland vessel surveyor, says that when a vessel on account of having had an accident to his vessel on account of fog, says he did not hear the fog whistle, he is slow to disbelieve him, even if the statement seems incredible.
 "The fog plays queer pranks with the conveying of sound," said the captain. "I remember that I was mystified by a fog signal station once when I was sailing. The fog hung low and to me the whistle sounded for off to the westward or where I supposed it to be. I could not understand it. I was afraid that I had lost my bearings entirely. I sent a man aloft and from there he could see the signal station and it was just where I had supposed it to be, and not where the sound indicated it."
 It was her first bridge party and she furnished more irritation than amusement.
 "You mustn't play out all your aces at first," explained her partner. "It isn't according to Elwell. Elwell says to play your fourth best unless you hold several high cards."
 The guest bit her lip with vexation but held her peace. She had never heard of Elwell before. When he was quoted to her again a few minutes later it was more than she could stand.
 "What a lot your husband must know about bridge," she retorted icily.
 "We do not see you at church yesterday," said the man who preaches the sermons.
 "No," said the parishioner evasively. "We were at home with a sick child."
 His associates looked at the mosquito bites on his features, the red skin and the shifting eye, and grinned.

THINGS BEAUTIFUL IN WHITE.
 The third floor of the Silberstein & Bondy Co. establishment was a scene of busy activity yesterday. It was the first day of the summer sale of underwear, muslins and hundreds of interested women, including many prospective brides, admired the dainty things and purchased what pleased their fancy most.
 The stocks are large and more varied than any previous sale. The line now shown being equal to anything in the northwest. The sale continues today and at this season and will doubtless be a great success.

DAMAGE SUIT BEGINS IN DISTRICT COURT
 Twenty-five thousand dollars is asked as damages in the suit of Philip Dorson against Butler Brothers, which was brought by Dorson yesterday in trial before Judge Dibell and a jury in room 3, district court, where Dorson alleges that he was injured by the attorneys in the case are Marshall & Whipple and Corvate S. Wilson.
 Dorson alleges that his complaint that while in the employ of the company he was ordered to drive with his team across a railway track where he was knocked down and injured by a dinky engine. In addition to being severely injured he was held in custody until he is set out that complainant's mind has become impaired and his health ruined. Butler Brothers say that the engine which complainant was not ordered to cross the track and that he did so at his own volition.

TRACTION COMPANY WINS DOG CASE
 All dogs look alike to the jury in district court that tried the suit for $125 damages brought by S. S. Sawyer against the Duluth Street Railway Company for the loss of a Scotch collie run over by a car at East Park avenue west and Fourth street.
 The jury reached a verdict in favor of the company.
 Mr. Seyler alleged that the canine belonged to the "four hundred" and was a dog of the name of "Sawyer" worth $125. The company denied that the animal was killed, but contended that the motorman who operated the car was negligent and did not exceed the speed limit established by the city ordinance.

Lowest Temperature With Bohn Refrigerators.
 The Synphon principle of ventilation of Bohn Refrigerators uses all the cold air with constant circulation, and makes temperature 38 to 42 degrees, nearly ten degrees lower than the average refrigerator.
 This, of course, keeps bottles, eggs, milk, fruit and the like much longer than other refrigerators can. These fine results are secured while ice is being saved.
 The Pullman Company and all the great railroads use the Bohn system, because it proved superior to all others in every official test.
 Call and see these beautiful refrigerators, and remember we sell them exclusively.

RANGE NEWS.
BIG RECORD AT STRIPPING
 Force at Adams Mine Handle 700 Dump Cars in One Day.
 RANGE BUREAU OF THE NEWS TRIBUNE.
 The stripping record of 700 dump cars made on the day shift Friday at the Adams mine was tied by the night shift on the same shovel, and to show the rivalry, two extra cars were loaded and dumped as the 6 o'clock whistle blew. A. O. Sisson, chief Bucyrus No. 218 for the night shift Friday, made a record of 700 cars in 7:25. In the two hours following, 220 cars were loaded. In the hour between 9 and 9:15, 120 cars were loaded. This gives a line on the rate of digging, and it is to be remembered that night work is more difficult than day work. Sisson lost four minutes on one slight breakdown, three-quarters of an hour in making up for a city hauler and in blasting it, and three-quarters of an hour by the breaking of the latch on the shovel. It is reported that the night shift did not come inside of the shift, but this could not be verified.

MENINGITIS CLAIMS HIBBING INFANT
 RANGE BUREAU OF THE NEWS TRIBUNE.
 The one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Kupper, of East Washington street, died Sunday of meningitis, after an illness of several days. The funeral will be held on Monday at 10 o'clock from the residence in the city over the report that the malady was the same as the cerebro spinal meningitis which has been fatal which has been causing so many deaths among infants in New York. The doctor here says that the case is of tubercular origin and not contagious, hence there is no occasion for alarm.
 Mr. E. Hart, the wholesale commission merchant, went to Duluth Friday and yesterday returned with a large quantity of Hibbing iron ore. The ore is being shipped to Duluth the 19th, to Miss Etta Hermes, of Broverville, Minn. The young couple are having a marriage party at Duluth until a residence can be secured for housekeeping.
 Both the D. M. & N. railroad and the Great Northern are making extensive improvements in and about the city this season. The work of the Duluth and St. Louis and Northern from Hibbing to Emmert was begun last week under the supervision of District Engineer Rummel. Work completed it will be used by the Great Northern which will run their passenger cars over the line. The Great Northern has begun for the Great Northern from Hibbing to Emmert to the Longyear, Albany, Webb and other mines east of Hibbing. The Great Northern is also trucking the ore to the steel corporation. The Great Northern has the contract for largest tonnage of ore from Hibbing. Altogether about 300 men are now employed here in track construction.
 Fred M. Smith secured a 16-horse power automobile today, and will install it in the bus service between Duluth and Superior. Capt. Joseph Claff, a commercial traveler with headquarters at St. Paul, visited Duluth yesterday with his nephew, W. F. Pellens, Jr.
 Much sympathy is expressed here for the death of the Shenango mine, who is to be buried in the district court at Duluth on a charge preferred by a young girl who resides here. Her name is Mrs. Capt. John Nelson. She has borne an excellent reputation. Her husband has been in the communication and several children, children to whom he has always been devoted and he is a Sunday school superintendent in the church. Whether it is the general opinion that the charge is groundless and that he will have no difficulty in proving his innocence. Rev. C. H. Blake and Capt. Webb have gone to Duluth as witnesses for the defense.

JAPAN'S TAX ON FOREIGNERS IS VOID
 THE HAGUE, May 22.—The arbitration tribunal today issued a award upholding the appeal of Great Britain, France and Germany against Japan for leaving the house tax on buildings in the old foreign colonies throughout the national bonds of the buildings are exempt.
 The United States is interested in the matter, although not a party to the arbitration. The point of law was the contention of Great Britain, France and Germany that Japan imposed taxes on buildings on the foreign concessions which, being permanent leases, are exempt from taxation.

BALL PLAYER DIES ON THE DIAMOND
 CHICAGO, May 22.—The sudden death of Edward J. Johnston has put an end to a ball game in which he was a player. Johnston was a tall, slender, well built man, who was put out when he reached the base he turned to run back to where other players were. He had gone but a few feet when he fell forward and died almost instantly. It is believed Johnston died of heart failure, due to over exertion. He was 25 years old.
