

LEVY-ZALK.

Marguerites were everywhere in the appointments of the wedding of Miss Estelle Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Levy, and Louis Zalk yesterday. Emanuel Temple, where the ceremony took place, the St. Louis dining room, where the banquet was served, and Steinway hall, where the reception and dance were given, were all profusely decorated with this dainty flower.

Miss Levy and Mr. Zalk were married at 5:30 o'clock. Preceding the bride to the altar were her four bridesmaids, Miss Hattie Levy, Miss May Hirschman of St. Paul, Miss Hilda Hirschman of Chicago and Miss Eva Zalk.

The ring bearer, Master George Hirschman, followed bearing two rings on a satin smilax trimmed pillow. Holding the little chap with white satin reins was the maid of honor, Miss May Levy. The bride entered accompanied by her father. Rabbi Mendel Silber, the groom and the groomsman, S. Y. Josephs, awaited the bride at the altar, where the ceremony was performed. An orchestra played the Lohengrin nuptial chorus as the party entered, and "O, Promise Me" during the sermon. As the words which made the young people man and wife left the minister's lips, the orchestra burst into the strains of Mendelssohn.

Dr. Harry Rothschild of Superior, Bismark Schiffers of Chicago and Benjamin Hirschman of St. Paul were the ushers.

At the St. Louis hotel, covers were laid for fifty and the orchestra accompanied the diners. Later the reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Zalk left on a wedding trip and will return to this city to make their home.
