Mrs. Roderick MacDonald of 223 West Fifth street, was hosted at a "boudle shower" Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Isabel Nunemaker.

ALIVELY opening of the spring social season was confidently expected after an unusually quiet Lent. The facts do not bear out anticipation, however, and society seems still passive, so far as actual events are concerned. Last week the university band attracted a goodly number of the elect. The fact that four high class musical events are scheduled for the near future is interesting, and Schumann-Helk, Theobald, Emil Leibling and Marie Hall will play to society audiences.

Parties are being organized for attendance at grand opera at Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis. There are indications that more people will journey from Duluth to the temporary shrines of melody than have ever before been lured away on such a pilgrimage.

In the stores and at the shops of local gown-makers, there are rush orders for opera garb. Several Duluthians will leave tonight for Chicago to hear grand opera. Among those who will go are: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hartman, Miss Berta Schmed, Ernest Lachmund, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Miller, Jr., A. W. Taussig, Mr. and Mrs. William Prindle, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Silvey, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Towne, Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Abbott, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, Mrs. Duxton and Miss Mary Bradshaw.

Mrs. Nettie Snyder writes that she has heard from a goodly number of Duluthians, relative to engaging seats for the opera in the capital city, and Minneapolis will draw its quota.

The fifth of a series of affairs given by the Ionic club scheduled for April 19 in a dancing party at the ball room in Masonic Temple. The Bachelors' dance on Friday last was a pleasurable affair. Anticipation is now busy with coming aquatic social affairs. The Boat club and Yacht club will entertain lavishly and everyone who owns a pleasure craft will keep it in active commission all summer. The quiet of the Easter day failed to dispel is merely the sobriety that precedes an unusually brilliant summer season.

Duluth has taken a special interest in the cable and telegraph news concerning the international social episode in which Col. and Mrs. C. H. Graves are figuring. The final chapter in Mrs. Von Claussen's story of protest will be awaited with keen anticipation. Already there are differences of opinion as to the matter and the subject has occasioned much lively comment in this city, which is the home of Col. Graves. The fact that the Duluth man has been reticent about his social affairs since assuming his position as minister to Sweden only whets the appetite of his old acquaintances for any news that may concern him or his charming wife, who is not known here.

Duluth girls are making their summer shirt waists. Last season any number of them showed with pardonable pride, the blouses that had been fashioned by their own fair fingers. During Lent many of them were busy embroidering their summer waists and these delicate garments are now ready to wear. The lacy lingerie hat will also, in many cases, be the product of its owner's deft fingers.

A number of the younger set in society enjoyed right royally a dancing party given at Harmonie hall on Friday evening. Among the dancers were: Misses—Fanny Wagner, Claudia Gordon, Gertrude Hoopes, Edith Hazen, Fay Hobbs, Elsie Walt, Marian Cunningham, Merlyn Wagner, Elsie Overman, Katherine Hunter, Pearl Hector, Marian Schmidt, Edna Park, Elsie Craswell; Messrs.—Ralph Ely, J. Longren, Laird Goodman, R. Spencer, Fred Ryan, Ralph Pincio, Roy Dietz, Henry Becker, D. Stocker, Sargent McDonald, E. Claypool, Elmer McDavitt, Kenneth Cant and Gage Baldwin.

Master Charles E. Firoved was surprised by his young friends on who is to be a bride this week. The rooms were decorated in red and white hearts. The gifts were presented the bride-elect in a wagon effectively decorated.

WEST END.

An interesting musical was given last Tuesday evening by the Ladies' Aid Society at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. The program, while short was well selected. The soloists, Evelyn T. Abbott, soprano, sang delightfully. Elizabeth Bailey Morten's piano numbers were especially pleasing. Oliver Colbentson's violin numbers were beautifully given. The violin solo by Mr. Colbentson was a rare old Amati, the property of Clarence Coleman of 2415 East Superior street. It has been in the Coleman family for more than a century. Famous violinists have drawn melody from this instrument and it has responded in its time to the caressing touch of Vieuxtemps and Ole Bull. Mr. Colbentson noticed the precious instrument reverently.
