THE Washburn home at Hunter's creek was the scene last evening afternoon and last evening of a beautiful reception, being the annual event given by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn for the graduating class of the Normal school. About 90 guests were entertained. The home was effectively decorated as to flowers. Supper was served at long tables in the billiard room, dining room and living room. The dining room was bright with yellow jonquils, while the color scheme in the living room and billiard room was carried out in pink carnations, trailing arbutus and ferns.

The parlor was also in pink and green. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn, and their son, Glauco Washburn, President E. W. Bohannon of the Normal school, Mr. and Mrs. E. Denfeld and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith. In addition to the Normal graduating class the board of education, the Normal faculty, the superintendent of public instruction and principal of the local high school were entertained. The affair was one of the pleasantest events of the season and one that will be remembered by the class and the Normal faculty. Washburn is one of the most gracious of local hostesses.

June, month of roses, sunny skies, brides and commencement exercises, arrived on a specially arranged weather schedule. June promises to be an active month socially. Various matrons plan entertainments for graduates to be, brides to be, students from eastern schools and the university, and there is a general disposition to devote all the time possible to outdoor amusements. The young folks will begin to arrive the last of the week and then the social activity will begin. The coming of the Thomas F. Cole, giant lake freighter, to the home port, was made a gala social event on Thursday and local society was well represented at the dedication of the Greenway school at Coleraine, three or four private cars carrying the guests from this city to the north woods model town. The plans of the boat club and yacht club promise to be social aquatic and everybody who can at all afford one, is to have a canoe. The amusement parks are open and the city green leaves are looking forth with more confidence from the trees. There is much discussion as to park improvements and the incorporation of the tennis club last week argues well for some activity in that game this month. Mayor Cullum is lending encouragement to the project of fixing up a tennis court at Lakeside and the Lakeside Land company has contributed the lot for it. The junior-senior reception and ball will take place at the Spalding Thursday evening and the series of high school social events will mark the week. The Northland Country club is a favorite haunt these days and the golf links are becoming more and more attractive.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps entertained at an army dinner Thursday at 12 o'clock in Rowley's hall. Their guests were the members of the Joshua D. Culver post and their wives. The room was beautifully decorated with flags and national colors. The table decorations were pink and white carnations. Miss Hamblin presiding at the piano, rendered several delightful numbers. Covers were laid for one hundred and fifty guests.

Last week was a busy season in the annals of the Duluth Gymnasium club. The young women introduced the week on Monday evening, by putting on a highly successful concert and exhibition at the Lyceum theater. Emily Ellis Woodvard, who had not been heard for so long a period previous, sang delightfully, making manifest the fact that her long rest, even though it was partly devoted to recovering from a severe illness, has improved her voice both as to tone and finish. Her songs were keenly enjoyed and she carried away echoes of enthusiastic applause and a lot of American beauties, Kodak, Hubert, directed over the footlights. Louis Dvorshak's solos were sung in fine voice and were of revelation to those who have not been observing the progress of this singer. Oliver Colbenton, whose remarkable violin playing has won him an enviable standing among musicians, contributed an artistic violin solo. The excellence of an accompaniment was assured when Mrs. F. G. Bradbury and Miss Elizabeth Morton consented to accompany the singers.

Flatten's orchestra played a series of numbers with more than its usual spirit and expression. The orchestra's excellence is so much talked for granted that appreciation is not always as demonstrative as it sometimes is for less satisfactory musical entertainment. The gymnasium girls made a proud showing for their less than a month's work. The exhibition of fencing held between Miss Ruth Roberts, physical director, and Prof. J. Lester Hartlett Jones of Chicago, and the feature, Miss Myrtle Peretz, pianist for the club, accompanied the drills and dances. The drills, games, dumb-bell exercises, dances and club swinging were well executed. The girls danced and drilled in their gymnasium costumes. Miss Alma Frank, particularly distinguished herself by her clever feats in swinging the Indian clubs. A large and entire audience witnessed the exhibition. On Wednesday evening, the annual business meeting, election of officers and social session was held at the club. Miss Roberts was extended a call to render her report as physical director and she accepted the call.

The meeting of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association at St. Paul June 6-8, continues the greatest interest in local music circles. Mrs. Osterger, chairman of the program committee, goes to St. Paul to be in consultation with the other officers. An intimation has been received that the association would accept an invitation from Duluth to meet here next year and it probably will be extended. It met here four years ago and this is the logical meeting place for next year. It would bring to the city not only the very best musical talent in the state to attend its sessions and to take part in the series of concerts and recitals, but several of the best artists of the East. It would be a musical treat to the general public as well as a short school in music for the local teachers and performers.

The musical program this year is in the form of recitals. The recital will begin Thursday morning with an organ recital by Mr. G. H. Fairclough, of St. Paul, to be followed by the mayor's address of welcome, the annual address of the president and the reports of the secretaries of the association.
