

IN THEIR NEW HOME

The Duluth Fur company, of 325 West First street, in the Winthrop block, will be in their new home at 404 West First street in the new Commercial club building on or about July 1, with a most complete and up-to-date furrier establishment.

The place will be a large, fine, spacious place, with new fixtures, and fine cabinets and display cases.

In fact, it will be an entirely new place, and will be managed and conducted by the two young men who came to Duluth about a year ago from the Twin Cities.

Mr. Harry Wenger, one of the firm, formerly was with some of New York's best and largest furriers, having spent about 12 years there, besides spending a year in Geneva, Switzerland, also being a graduate of the American College of Cutting and Designing, from which place he received a diploma for his excellent work while there and at the time of graduating.

The other young man of this concern, Mr. William Oxman, came to Duluth at the same time that Mr. Wenger took up his residence here. Mr. Oxman came to Duluth from the Twin Cities very highly recommended from some of the leading furriers there.

It is a recognized fact that these two young men are thoroughly competent as furriers, and the fact that they are, has proven to them conclusively that the treatment which they have given the public has been heartily appreciated and through their success has increased business so greatly. That the new home is an absolute necessity. On or about Aug. 1, they will have all in complete readiness for the fall and winter trade at their new location, 404 West First street, Commercial club's new building.
