You protest you can't buy in your home town, because you must have something else. Don't you know that, if you give the home merchant enough business, he can afford to carry and sell anything that is wanted. Don't you know he'd be tickled to death to stock fine goods, if enough people would patronize him? You do not need to have things so much better than everyone else, if your taste hurts your home town, do you? Then Trade at Home!
