

JEW PATRIARCH DIES OF OLD AGE

Was First Hebrew Resident of
Duluth and Was Beloved By His People.

With the death of Moses Pollnsky, at 323½ East Fifth street, late Sunday night, the first and oldest Jewish resident of Duluth passed away. He had reached the age of 83 years and had lived in this city since 1850.

Mr. Pollnsky had been in fairly good health until a short time ago when senility began to creep upon him. The weakness incident to old age was the direct cause of death. The funeral will be held at the family residence this morning at 9 o'clock, interment to be in the Jewish cemetery.

Regarded by all of his race as the patriarch of his people in Duluth, Mr. Pollnsky was best known and beloved of all the Jews in the city. He had a host of warm friends among the people of his own race and the residents of Duluth in general. Generosity was his chief characteristic and he was ever ready to extend a helping hand to any charitable cause.

During his early days in Duluth Mr. Pollnsky made it a habit to become acquainted with all the newly arrived members of his race and he never failed to lend them every possible assistance, both in their business and their home lives. His cheerful efforts have brought success to many an enterprise and happiness to many a home.

Mr. Pollnsky is survived by two sons and three daughters. All are married, with the exception of one son, who resides in Duluth.
