

HALE METHOD FOR PAINLESS FILLING.

The Most Sensitive
Teeth
Filled
Without
Pain
Or Danger.

To whom this may come Greeting

This is to Certify that William W. Schiffman has fully completed the course of instruction in this Institute and he has all the appliances necessary for practicing the theory taught, and, having secured grant by James Hale, is entitled to, and by this presents, this Institute confers upon said William W. Schiffman the Degree of Licentiate Hale Method, together with all the rights and privileges of said method and appliances in the practice of Dental Surgery, from date hereof, in the city of Duluth, State of Minnesota.

Positively
Without
Pain
Or Danger.

WHEREAS, Dr. Hale is the inventor of what is known as the Hale method for filling sensitive teeth without pain; and, whereas, many dentists over the country avail themselves of this method, one in each city only being permitted to use the same; and, whereas, other unauthorized and unscrupulous imitators make claim to being in possession of this method, or similar or better method of their own, by imitating, advertising and seeking in a public manner to detract from and build up on the reputation established by me since my location in the city;

THEREFORE, I wish it distinctly understood that I am the only dentist lawfully authorized to use the Hale Method in this city, imitators to the contrary notwithstanding.

DR. W. W. SCHIFFMAN,

WHAT THEY SAY.

Read the following testimonials from a few of the best dentists throughout the country; others might here be given, but they are all of the same tenor

Providence, R. I., October 10th.
Owing to pressure of business I have neglected replying to your note of inquiry in reference to my success with your method for painless excavating. I cannot well express the satisfaction it has given me from the first; and as its value becomes more generally known, it will be used by all dentists—if they are fortunate enough in getting hold of it. You are at liberty to use my name, and to say that I regard your method of greater worth to both patient and dentist than anything yet offered to the profession.
W. H. TILLINGHAST, D. D. S.

West Haven, Wis., November 5th.
Your letter of October 25th received. You know already what I think of the Hale method, but if it will do you any good, will say that I am tickled all over with its success, not alone as a pain extender, but as a money producer as well. All hail to the new method! Let the good work go on.
W. E. WOLFAK, D. D. S.

Terre Haute, Ind., October 7th.
Your process for preparing teeth for filling without pain is most satisfactory to my patients and to me. I can now prepare any cavity for gold, no matter how sensitive the tooth. Have already doubled my practice through its use, and do so without any advertising, except a line in the daily papers.
C. F. WILLIAMS, D. D. S.

577 ALBANY, N. Y., November 1, 1893
I have your letter in which you ask for my candid opinion of the value of the Hale method in my practice. I have used the method for more than a year, as you know, and am very glad of the opportunity to say that it has fulfilled every promise you made to me concerning it. I am now filling all teeth absolutely without pain, and I wish to thank you for the wonderful discovery. You are at liberty to refer to me as anyone who is at all skeptical regarding its efficiency and value in dental practice.
J. M. COVINGTON, M. D.

LYNN, Mass., July 26th.
You can write anything you wish for me in commendation of your process for painless filling, and sign my name. You have completely solved the most difficult problem in dental practice, and both face and fortune are yours in the face.
W. J. VANOR.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 25.
After four months' use of your Painless Method in my office, we take much pleasure in saying that we have yet to see it make its initial failure. It "does the business" precisely as you claim for it, and the man who buys the Method should order two or three extra dental chairs at the same time. Refer any and all to us at any time.
