

Man Will Appeal

Max Bloom, convicted of violating the ordinance regulating second hand stores, has decided to appeal his case to the supreme court. A motion for a new trial was denied yesterday and a stay of five days to prepare an appeal was granted.
