

THE STAGE.

This evening is set for the newsboys' concert at the Bethel. The crusty man who buys a paper of a hoarse voiced urchin on a corner may have serious doubt as to whether there is the element of melody in the newsboy's soul. But it is there, for there are a number of very sweet singers among the little fellows, several very clever specialists on various instruments and some capable reciters. Tonight's concert is given under the direction of A. G. Pearson, who has taken considerable interest in the musical abilities of the boys, and Miss Tupper who will act as accompanist. There will be three choruses. John Orekovsky will sing De Newsies' O'ra. Darts, Won't You be My Sweetheart and Her Eyes Don't Shine Like Diamonds, and The Spanish Merchant will be rendered by Monack Oreckkovsky and Sam Lavick, Maj Harry Jones and Judge Milton Jones and Mitch Mitchell and Clara Hector. The Mascot will sing Our Back Yard and play Daisy Bell on the mouth organ. Recitations include Paul Revere's Ride by Tom Meagher, Somebody's Mother by St Bennett and The Vagabonds by Frenchy Huard. Monack Oreckkovsky and Mr. Pearson will give a duet on the mouth organ, and the program will end with a mouth organ chorus by Monack Oreckkovsky, Joe Hollar, Tom Meagher, Ed Huard, Bud Lee, Mr. Pearson and Hennie Schipper. The admission will be 10 cents.

The greatest grand piano ever made will be sent from Chicago to be used by Mr. Lauder at his wonderful recitals at Turner hall, beginning Saturday at 8 p. m. with Beethoven. Monday evening Mr. Lauder will take up popular music, and the concluding recital on Tuesday evening will be devoted to Wagner and Liszt.

"A notable feature," says the Fall River Herald of Leland T. Powers' impersonations of Dickens' characters, "was the hearty enjoyment with which that part of the audience who do not attend plays applauded Mr. Powers' acting."

Mrs. Gen Tom Thumb and her second husband, Count Magri, who it is said have associated with them several other imitations of equal talent and fame, will appear at the Temple tomorrow afternoon and evening. Their entertainment is especially designed to display the full scope of their talents, including several short comedies and numerous specialty acts. Count Magri will be seen in a sword combat. The citizens of Duluth are invited to meet Mrs. Tom Thumb and her players on the stage at the close of the matinee performance.
