THE WEEK IN DULUTH

The much talked of "leap year" ball took place last Monday evening at the Spalding and was a delightful event. The ladies assumed entire charge of the affair and acquitted themselves admirably. Everything, from the elaborate hall decorations of palms and potted plants to the cunningly contrived little Japanese smoking room, was decidedly au fait. For the occasion the ladies were very much in evidence and lavished every courtesy upon their masculine guests who were temporarily relegated to obscurity. Never have Duluth society men appeared more charmingly dressed or more shy and winning in manner. Many of the handsomest suits were imported especially for the occasion. Among the most noticeable of gentlemen was William C. Sargent, who appeared radiant in handsome black broadcloth and decolette hair.

Charles McDonald looked charming from behind a large note book with which he fanned himself constantly. Mr. Otto Hartman was most becomingly attired in gaslight green, lined with watered silk. Mr. "Wah Wah" Woodruff's sylph-like form was draped in a coat cut en train, with trousers to match. He was on trains most of the evening. Mr. Charles W. Culver's fascinating countenance beamed radiantly above a collar cut low in front, and mustache worn high. His first appearance in the ball room with a bunch of rare paper flowers attracted much attention and favorable comment. Mr. Granger was gowned in a well-fitting costume and was decidedly one of the belles. Mr. Farrington wore his usual smile and was demurely sweet behind his corsage bouquet of choice hyacinths. Mr. Alex. Hartman wore his glasses well posed and showed to advantage his real Eastern smile. Mr. McLennan was lovely as usual, and while waltzing managed his trailing gown most gracefully.

The foregoing descriptions of the costumes were furnished the News Tribune by a prominent young society lady so they must be right. The reception committee was composed of the following young married men: Messrs. W. C. Sargent, S. S. Bradley, Dr. Brown, James C. Hunter, R. B. Knox, W. B. Silvey and Clark Fagg. The floor was ably managed by Mesdames Knox, Bradley, Fagg, and Misses Magoffin, Comstock and Sellwood.

Among the guests present were Messrs. and Mesdames W. C. Sargent, G. G. Hartley, T. D. Merrill, J. C. Hunter, J. H. Upham, G. V. I. Brown, A. H. Comstock, N. J. Upham, A. D. Thomson, F. R. Weber, M. L. Frisbein, F. E. Searle, Clark Fagg, S. S. Bradley, Victor Stearns, Knox, G. A. French, Whitney Wall, W. B. Silvey, E. P. Towne, S. L. Frazier, Bowers, T. H. Larke, Walter Turle, C. C. Tearle, M. C. Fishbein.

Mesdames Watrous, D. H. Day, Huntress, Parker, Miller, Eusign, Snapp. Misses Fogarty, Nell Fogarty, Bradshaw, Butler, of Superior; Thatcher, of Chicago; Martha Peyton, Sharp, Comstock, Boyce, Sellwood, Magoffin, MacLean, Parker, Simonds, Minnie MacLean, McLaren, Frazer, Ames, Brearley, Poirier, Moon, Scott, Crowley, Eusign, Watson.

Messrs. Oscar Nelson, of Stillwater; E. W. McPherson, of Marquette; Herbert H. Knox, of New York; Coburn, Potter, Smith, Powell, DeGroat, Foresmar and Luley, of Superior; A. W. Hartman, Farrington, Frank Leach, Woodruff, Culver, Norman Leach, O. C. Hartman, D. R. McLennan, Ames, Jacobi, W. McLennan, W. McCormick, McLaren, McDougall, Leslie, C. McCormick, Noyes, Chappen, Parker, Walbank, Granger, Fywater, Shephard, McKinley, Hunter, Sharp, Bassett, Boldrick, Murray, Peyton, Dowse, Weber, Hartley, Johanson, Phillips, J. Eaton, Prescott and Torrey.

The last of the assembly balls given previous to the Lenten season, last Friday evening at the Spalding, was a decided social success. The ball room was charmingly decorated. Hoare's orchestra furnished the music. Refreshments were served during the intermission. Among those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Silvey, Fagg, French, Knox, Stearns, Speyers, Dowse, James and Walker.

Mesdames J. L. Snapp and T. Huntress. Misses Fogarty, Butler and Lewis of West Superior, Thatcher of Chicago, LaVaque, Ames, McLaren, Peyton, Sellwood, Comstock, Parker, Dickinson, Watson, St. Clair, Avery, Edkinson, Moon and Sharpe.

Messrs. Potter, Coburn, Powell, Culver, Foresmar of West Superior, Geggie, F. Leach, Peyton, N. Leach, Clinton McCormick, Sellwood, McKinley, Walbank, Bywater, Watrous, Hunter, W. McCormick, Alec Hartman, Gilbert, Brice, McDonald, MacDougall, Parker, Mattocks, Watson, Leslie, Stocking, McLaren, Baldrick, Hartley and Ward Ames, Jr.

Next Friday evening the musicians' Bethel testimonial concert will be given. A number of local musicians will assist in the program, including Miss Bradshaw, the Gounod choir, Mark C. Baker, Franz Schultz and others. The concert is given under the management of Mrs. Olund, Miss McDonald, Messrs. Baker, Lachmund and Gerard Tonnig. The proceeds will be turned over to Dr. Salter to relieve him of an indebtedness incurred last year when the projected large choral concert had to be given up on account of Dr. Salter's illness and subsequent absence from the city.

The Mozart society will give a chamber concert the first part of March. Among the numbers on the program will be Schumann's celebrated quintet for strings and piano. The chorus will take up this week the charming ballad for mixed voices, "King Eric," by Rheinberger.

The first annual ball of the Judeth Montefiori society was given Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows hall and was a delightful affair. A large sum was realized and will be devoted to charitable purposes. Music was furnished by Trautvetter's orchestra, and refreshments were served by the ladies of the society, Mesdames S. I. Levin, D. Van Haalen, W. M. Abrahamson, I. Abrahamson and I. Summerfield.

The leap year sleighing party at West Duluth last Monday evening was a practical illustration of the adage: "Where there's a will there's a way." Despite a decided lack of snow a merry party took possession of two omnibuses and proceeded to the Hotel Bennett where everyone enjoyed a delightful evening. Supper was served under the supervision of Landord McKee, and there was dancing until long after midnight. The ladies of the party were attired in "Martha Washington" costumes. Those present were: The Misses Reinhardt and Schulze and Starkey, Kohagen, Wieland, Anderson, Friedrichs, Colvin, Peck, Casey, Messers. Reinhardt, Abbott, Schulze, Wieland, White, Case, Eden, Summerton, Benson, Leonards, Butchart, Barclay.

The social dance which is to be given at Odd Fellows' hall on Friday evening, Feb. 21, by Imperial Camp No. 2206, Modern Woodmen of America, promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the season. The committees are made up as follows: Arrangements—F. A. Noble. Reception—H. W. Moeller, E. E. Starkey. Floor—O. A. Kruschke, E. F. Nelson, Wm. Tunnell, F. S. Huse, Ernest Butchart and E. A. Noble. The committees are hard at work and judging from the number of tickets already sold there will be a large attendance.

An informal musicale was given by Mrs. Brasher for her brother, Mr. Horace Brown at their home, 501 West Second street last Friday evening to about 20 of their friends. Solos by Mr. Baker, Mr. Stephenson and Master Jacobson furnished a delightful program. Mrs. Brasher's charming hospitality completed a most enjoyable evening.

The sixth annual ball of the Butchers' union was given Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall. Over 100 couples were present and enjoyed themselves thoroughly. President and Mrs. Thomas H. Hancock lead the grand march.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will give a reception at the church parlors Tuesday evening. Refreshments will be served.

A delightful leap year masquerade was given Friday evening at Norma hall by Mesdames Paul Sharvy, H. R. Armstrong, W. J. Bates, P. L. Johnson and Miss Annie Johnson. The hall was tastefully decorated and there was a number of unique and elaborate costumes in evidence. Trautvetter's orchestra furnished the music. Among the masquers present were Messrs. and Mesdames H. R. Armstrong, J. T. Armstrong, Paul Sharvy, W. J. Bates, C. S. Pierce, Doctor Wilson, J. C. Helm, T. A. Merritt, P. L.
