Isaac Polinsky, a peddler, living at Tenth street and Fourth avenue east, was arrested yesterday and locked up at the central station for rather a wholesale case of assault. The victims were Max Greenfeld, Jake Lundin, Sam Goldstein and Mrs. Greenfeld. It appeared that Isaac felt hurt because he was not invited to a party given by the Greenfelds, and in venting his spite tried with partial success to clean out the neighborhood. All of the parties interested nursed their bruises and wrongs and hastened to the city hall to swear out warrants. The alleged assault occurred just before noon, and Polinsky was arrested later in the day and arraigned before Judge Edson. His trial was set for today and his bail was fixed at $50. After rustling around for an hour accompanied by Officer Ryan the wholesale assailant succeeded in finding security.
