

THEIR FAITH FIRM

FORMER WEST DULUTHIANS RETURN TO RESUME BUSINESS.

Their Confidence in the Future of West Duluth So Stendfast That With the Revival of Trade They Decide to Re-Engage in Their Old Lines—Lends Additional Re-Assurance to West Duluth.

Three former West Duluthians are about to return to the city to make their permanent home here. They were all in business here some time ago and they will return here for the purpose of opening up again.

J. J. Lauerman and family have returned from New Ulm. Mr. Lauerman was formerly in the boot and shoe business at this end of the city and it is understood that he will engage in the same business at his old stanad. He left here about a year ago. His family will reside in the T. Allyn Scott residence.

Martin Thurner will also return from New Ulm. He was well known in this part of the city, where he lived for many years until about a year ago. He has been living at New Ulm.

O. E. Schibsted, formerly a business man of West Duluth, will also return to locate here. It is understood. He has been residing at Baldwin, Minn., for some time past.

The return of these men means a good deal in the eyes of West Duluthians. They are of the opinion that the old residents that have left see a return of the good times of West Duluth, with the opening up of the blast furnace and the prospective opening up of other industries.
