John Johnson Shatters Window of Second Hand Store.

John Johnson, who in his perambulations around the city had contrived to acquire a quarrelsome jag, was arrested late yesterday afternoon for breaking a window in the second hand store of C. M. Polinsky, on the Bowery. Johnson, it is alleged, ran out of change, and in order to replenish his depleted exchequer, dropped into Polinsky's to dispose of some few articles he believed he could get along without.

He and the proprietor disagreed on terms, and according to the latter he shattered a $2.50 pane of glass in the front door just to show his displeasure. But Polinsky was mean enough to get mad too and swore out a warrant.
