

ALBENBERG WILL MOVE TO DULUTH

Big Dry Goods House In Superior Leases Three Floors of the Hunter Building.

The A. Albenberg dry goods house of this city will move to Duluth early in June. Mr. Albenberg said this to a representative of the News Tribune just as he arrived from his trip to New York city, where he had been for several days on his regular buying trip. A report to the same effect was printed in the News Tribune at the time of a report of Spencer-Fanning company changing location was published, but owing to the absence of Mr. Albenberg it could not be verified.

In speaking of the proposed removal Mr. Albenberg said to the News Tribune:

"Yes, the News Tribune was correct in announcing that we will remove to Duluth this spring. We have had the matter under consideration for some time but had not definitely decided to make the change until we were forced to vacate our present quarters; being unable to secure a new lease. Even then we did not want to leave Superior if we could secure a favorable location. We were unsuccessful in our search and then decided to move.

"We will occupy the Hunter building which will be remodeled for us. We will occupy the first, second and basement floors. The work of remodeling our new quarters will begin in April.

"I have tried every way to get around making the change but have been unable to see any way out of the difficulty. While in this city we have enjoyed good business trade which held up while merchants in other cities were going to the wall."
