

DENTISTS HAD RIGHT TO REMOVE ELECTRIC SIGN

Judge Cutting Directs Verdict For
Drs. Johnson & Kaake, in Suit
Brought by Moses Cook,

The case of Moses Cook against Drs. Johnson and Kaake, dentists in the Mesaba block, ended yesterday forenoon, Judge Cutting directing a verdict for the defense.

Cook sued the dentists, who have offices above the formers' store, for damages caused by the removal of his electric sign, hanging over the door. The dentists contended that they had served notice on Cook to remove the sign as it interferred with their light, and when Cook paid no attention to the notice, Johnson & Kaake took the sign down.
