With Mr. Morgan in charge, H. J. Johnson recently returned from the big Omaha Corn Convention where North Dakota's exhibits attracted much favorable attention, interesting many prospective settlers.

The library would be glad to have the first 5 volumes of The World's Work; any volumes of McClure's; the Chautauqua; or the Cosmopolitan and the following volumes of Outing; all before Vol. 44, and in Vol. 44, Nos. 3 and 6; in 46, No. 2; in 47, No. 6; and in 48, No. 1; also Current Literature, and the first two volumes of Masters in Art, and the year 1909 and The Independent, before Vol. 60.

New things occur every day and we are not usually surprised to see anything new, but it is with surprise that we have learned that Wells and Dickey Company are now offering to loan money on first mortgages on improved Stutsman county farms for six and one-half per cent without commission and 5 1/2 per cent with commission. This is a great deduction from all previous interest rates offered here and puts Stutsman county on par with the older eastern states on interest rates.

WANTED—To trade land for Jamestown residence. Write or phone A. J. Meyers, 507 Fifth Ave. No. Mrs. Margaret Bolton of Pingree, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McGillivray, returned to her claim this morning.

Mandan is expecting a boom also, with two new hotels, a sewer and water system and the starting up of business on side streets, instead of further extending the present single business street, which is about a mile long, with stores on one side of the street.

It is pleasant to know that former residents of North Dakota still keep up a loyal interest in the state. This is frequently manifested by former women residents of the state as well as by the men. As showing this loyalty to her old home, Mrs. G. D. Strong, of Randolph, Vt., has remitted $2.50 to C. A. Klaus, as a contribution to the Jamestown fund for the silver service for the new patriaship. The money has been forwarded to the committee, and Mrs. Strong's name enrolled on the list of contributors.

"SPOTTER LAW" DECISION FAR REACHING

MANY LAWS RENDERED UNCONSTITUTIONAL. IMPORTANT SECTION IGNORED.

Fargo, N. D. Dec. 28.—The decision handed down by the North Dakota supreme court last week, by which the so-called "spotter" law is declared illegal, is far-reaching in its effect. If the decision of the court is applied in other directions outside of the case tried, it virtually sweeps away in one breath a large proportion of the appropriation laws passed by all the legislative assemblies in North Dakota since the beginning of statehood a score of years ago, and makes illegal appropriations for state institutions running up to large amounts. The so-called "spotter" law was a provision made by the legislature of 1903 for a reward of $50 to be paid to persons who secured the arrest and conviction of violators of chapter 63 of the penal code, known as the prohibition law. An appeal was taken from the decision of Judge Templeton in the district court, holding the law invalid in the case of the State of North Dakota vs. Don McDonald, treasurer of Grand Forks county. The opinion in the case on the appeal to the supreme court is written by Judge Spaulding, the entire court concurring. It virtually states that Judge Templeton's decision in the district court would have been sustained so far as the showing made by the appellant's attorneys objections to Judge Templeton's decision prevailed, but the supreme court itself in going over the case, discovered a section of the state constitution which has apparently been overlooked entirely by every legislative assembly from 1890 to the present time, Section 62 of the constitution, reads:

"The general appropriation bill shall embrace nothing but appropriations for the expense of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the state and interest on the public debt and for public schools. All other appropriations shall be made by special bills, each embracing but one subject."

Section 186 of the constitution provides that no money shall be paid out of the state treasury except on appropriation by law and on warrant drawn by the proper officer. To the surprise of the supreme court it discovered that no general appropriation law has ever been passed by any North Dakota legislature. The court holds that all appropriations not in accord with these two provisions are void and that the "spotter" law, not providing for any specific amount of appropriation is also void. A very small proportion of the appropriations made by the legislature and now aggregating nearly $10,000,000 have complied with section 62 of the constitution.

A hundred more or less, of the supposedly best attorneys in the state have been members of the different legislatures and it is remarkable that the plain constitutional requirement concerning appropriations should be entirely overlooked by everybody interested for a score of years and that it was finally left for the supreme court to make the discovery, almost accidentally, after knocking down the objections of the distinguished attorneys for the appellants on other points. Just what the effect may be on the state is not yet apparent.

The appellants included former Atty. Gen. T. F. McCue, Attorney General Miller and Assistant Attorney Generals Zuger and Young, J. B. Wineman for the respondents.

WILLARD OF WASHINGTON.

Hotel Man Whose Name Was Indelibly Stamped in the Capital's History. Henry Augustus Willard, formerly of Washington, who recently died at Walpole, N. H., was one of five brothers whose names have been indelibly stamped on Washington's history for more than half a century. Mr. Willard came to the national capital in 1847. He was a steward on the New York and Troy steamboat line on the Hudson river when he came under the notice of Mrs. Phoebe Warren, whose brother owned the City hotel in Washington. Mrs. Warren said to her brother, "Do you want a bright, energetic and capable young man to take charge of your hotel?" The brother said he did, and Mrs. Warren then said, "I have found just the man for you in Henry A. Willard, who is a steward on a Hudson river boat."

Mr. Willard came to Washington and opened the City hotel, soon changing the name to Willard's hotel. He managed this hotel alone until 1853, when his brother Joseph became his partner. They conducted the hotel until 1861, when they leased it. In 1862 Henry Willard sold his interest in the property to Joseph. All of Mr. Willard's brothers—Edwin, Joseph, Stevens and Caleb—came to Washington. Henry Willard gave them their start and enabled them to achieve great success in life.

Henry A. Willard was a loyal supporter of the Union cause during the civil war. At one of the most critical periods of the war, when it seemed as if the capital would be taken by the Confederates, the flag on Willard's hotel was the only one flying in Washington other than those on the government buildings. Some of Mr. Willard's southern friends advised him to haul the flag down, but he refused to do so.

In all matters relating to the improvement of Washington Mr. Willard took an active interest. Under President Grant he served as vice president of the board of public works, a body to which modern Washington largely owes its existence. During this period Senator Edmunds of Vermont one day met Mr. Willard. He was in high temper.

"I'm going to introduce a bill providing for the removal of the capital from Washington," he said. "A hog got into my garden last night and made a mess of one of the prettiest flower gardens in Washington. A town that hasn't any board of health to regulate the running at large of dirty animals does not deserve to have the honor of being the seat of government."

There was a sentiment at the time in favor of removing the capital to the middle west. St. Louis being mentioned. Mr. Edmunds was a power in congress, and his advocacy of removal might have proved serious. Mr. Willard persuaded him to hold off his bill until a movement could be started for the creation of a board of health. Such a board was formed soon afterward, and Mr. Edmunds forgot the unfriendly hog and thereafter planted his flowers without danger of their being uprooted by intruders.

The estates of Henry, Joseph and Caleb Willard comprise some of the most valuable real estate holdings in Washington.

An Important Advantage.

"Do you think a college education affords a man an important advantage?"

"Oh, yes! One has to have it in order to get into a university club."—Chicago Record-Herald.

RAILROAD BUILDING IN WINTER.

Walker, Minn., Dec. 27.—Several hundred railroad laborers are busy in northwestern Cass county, and notwithstanding the cold weather, the work of bringing the Soo road through a portion of this county goes on. D. H. Slater, living right in the new railroad belt, as well as being one of the oldest settlers of that portion of the county, states that one camp of 200 men are stationed near his place and that the surrounding country has been gone over with a fine comb for chickens, eggs, butter and other produce to supply the camps. This fact alone suggests the great possibilities of the market garden next season. Mr. Slater states that 200 men are wanted in his township next summer to raise potatoes, and that the railroad people will take about everything a farmer can raise.

EVER WATCHFUL.

A Little Care Will Save Many Jamestown Readers Future Trouble.

Watch the kidney secretions. See that they have the amber hue of health;

The discharges not excessive or infrequent;

Contain no "brick-dust like" sediment.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do tails for you.

They watch the kidneys and cure them when they're sick.

Harry Siegel, formerly living at 120 Second Ave., So., Jamestown, N. Dak., says: "About six months ago I commenced to suffer from kidney trouble. My back pained me so severely that I was unable to get about and the kidney secretions also caused me much annoyance. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Smith's drug store and commenced their use. I felt relief immediately and when I had taken the contents of three boxes I was permanently cured."

Smokeless

Until science discovered a way to construct the Automatic Smokeless Device, and make it completely dependable, all oil heaters had one common great fault—smoke.

With the advent of the Automatic Smokeless Device, and its practical application to the

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

the smoke problem was successfully solved.

The Perfection Oil Heater is the only heater equipped with this which insures a steady, full-glowing heat with the wick turned up as high as it will go, without a shred of smoke. Reverse the motion, turn the wick down—there's no odor. The smokeless device automatically locks and prevents the upward movement of the wick beyond the proper exposure. That is the secret. This splendid result gives leadership to the Perfection.

You may now have all the heat you want—when you want it—and where you want it—without the annoyance of smoke or odor. Brass font holds 4 quarts of oil, which permits a glowing heat for 9 hours. Brass wick tube—damper top—cool handle. Cleaned in a minute. The Perfection is beautifully finished in Nickel or Japan.
