

LOSES PATIENCE AND ENDS UP IN COURT

Because, according to his own story in court, he lost his patience with a smadd boy who persistently snow-balled him. J. Goldberg landed before Judge Parker yesterday charged with assault an battery by the lad's father. The hearing was adjourned to April 12th.

The complaining witness in the case is W. Wise, who charges Goldberg beating his son, Nathan. Golberg denies that he did more than give the lad to understand that he could not be pelted with hard snow-balls with impunity. He claims that the lad did this while he was engaged about his duties as a glazier.
