

YOUTH HAD LOT OF BAD MONEY

Edward Paul Jailed on Charge of Carrying Counterfeit Coin in His Possession.

SECOND MAN ACCUSED OF PASSING "THE QUEER"

Sam Polinsky Nabbed With Paul on Train—Both Held for Further Action.

Edward Paul, 24 years old, 315 East Seventh street and Sam Polinsky, 18 years old, living at 119 1/2 East First street, were arraigned before United States Court Commissioner Pressnell yesterday morning. Paul is charged with having in his possession 45 counterfeit $5 gold coins and Polinski with having passed spurious money. Each entered a plea of not guilty. They were remanded to the county jail to await a hearing which will be held in the near future.

Paul and Polinsky were arrested about 11 o'clock Wednesday night aboard a Great Northern train on their way to the Twin Cities. Chief Troyer and Special Agent Worthington of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road took Paul into custody and Detective Terry and Sergeant Bradley arrested Polinsky. The chief says he found the spurious gold in Paul's overcoat pocket.

On Tuesday Special Agent Worthington received information that counterfeit gold coin was being passed on the railroad trains and street cars running into Duluth. He at once notified Chief Troyer, and an investigation was made. Paul and Polinsky were located Wednesday, and all day they were shadowed by detectives, and every move that they made, even to a trip to Superior, was known. It was learned that they were going to Minneapolis Wednesday night, and plans were made to catch them on the train.

When the officers boarded the train they found Paul in one of the coaches, and Polinsky in the smoker. Chief Troyer at once placed Paul under arrest, and in searching his overcoat, found a bulky envelope in an outside pocket, but pinned to the coat on the inside with a safety pin. When the chief took this out Paul cried, "O, My God! O, My God! What will become of me!" Opening the envelope the money was found rolled up in several pieces of newspaper. In another pocket of the overcoat was found a 30 caliber Iver Johnson revolver.

Although none of the imitation money was found on Polinsky when he was searched, it is believed by the police that they have enough evidence to secure his conviction as an accomplice, as they say it is known that he has been passing out the bogus coins for circulation.

The coins themselves are very clever imitations of the real article. Passed out carelessly they would pass all but the most rigid inspection, except that they were light in weight and did not have the clear metallic ring of gold coin of standard weight and fineness. In the envelope with the coins were a chamols skin and powder with which to polish the coins and give them a luster.

When brought to the station Paul said in explanation that he had bought the coins for $1 apiece from a man by the name of Miller, who said to meet him in Minneapolis on Thursday and he would buy them back again for $1.10 apiece.

Paul is a married man with two children. He was formerly a blacksmith at Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street, but lately he has been working for the Duluth Bedding company.
