Fourth Ward Aldermanic Candidate Receives Indorsement of Young Men's Republican Club.

Clean City Government Is His Motto.

The most exciting aldermanic contest of the present campaign is being waged in the Fourth ward, where Max Oreckovsky, the popular Republican candidate for alderman, is making a strong fight for election to the city council.

Mr. Oreckovsky has the indorsement of the Young Men's Republican club, the Republican city committee and the active support of many voters of the ward who are working for his election, knowing him to be straight-forward, capable, honest and a man of integrity and well worthy of a seat in the council in view of his life-long residence in the city.

His platform, as announced in the press a short time ago, makes it clear that he is not a corporation man, but one who will look after the interests of his constituents in an efficient and business-like manner, and see that every one received a square deal at all times. He favors the lighting bonds, believing that when approved they will be of advantage to the city in securing electric light at a cheaper cost for the people of Duluth.

As an exponent of a 5-cent fare for Park Pointers, Mr. Oreckovsky has received the commendation of the people of that section of the city as well as those of the entire ward, again proving that the people's interests are his own and will be safe in his hands if elected to the council.

Mr. Oreckovsky has grown up in Duluth and knows the city and its needs from one end to the other and especially the Fourth ward, where he is interested in some large property holdings. One of his main reasons for entering this contest is to see that the taxpayers and property owners shall receive full value for all moneys spent by the city in the interests of the people.

A vote for Max Oreckovsky for alderman of the Fourth ward, next Tuesday, is a vote for good, clean and honest city government.
