(Range Bureau of the News Tribune.)
EVELETH, Dec. 6.—Fifteen years ago George Mesberg sold newspapers on the streets of Duluth. Today he is one of the members of Eveleth's first village commission. He was elected only after a hot campaign in which a number of Eveleth's pioneer business men were his opponents.
Mr. Mesberg has lived here more than 10 years. He is the son of John Mesberg, former alderman of Virginia, and range business man.
