Will Teach Neighborliness.

Samuel Quigley, director of the extension division of the state university, has outlined a tentative program for teaching "Neighborliness," during the "University Weeks" this summer. In explanation of the idea it is announced that, "an expert will be employed to show how community happiness may be promoted through a more generous and wise use of the faculties and facilities belonging to all the people." The lecturers will talk on several special subjects during their one-week stay in the different cities throughout the state. Musical concerts and entertainment are contemplated for the evening programs.
