

Joseph Krawetz, vice-president, read a paper in Yiddish on the life of Sholom Aleichem.

The West Side Relief Society has adopted a resolution recommending that instead of killing a fowl this year as is the custom of Orthodox Jews on the Day of Atonement, which will be observed next month, its members, as well as all others who can be interested shall contribute 25 cents to the relief of Jewish sufferers in war zones. A special committee was named to meet Saturday night to arrange plans for special relief measures on this occasion.

New House of Worship Formally Is Opened with Impressive Services.

With more than 1,000 persons in attendance, the new Temple of Aaron, Ashland avenue and Grotto street, formally was dedicated Sunday afternoon with impressive services.

The new center of Jewish activities in St. Paul was thronged throughout the day by visitors who were shown through the building and explained the activities which will be housed in the structure in the near future.

Jewish leaders from all over the state were present to take part in the afternoon ceremonies, a special feature of which was the congregational and chorus singing, led by Dr. Sol Goldstone, formerly obercantor at Vienna, Austria. An orchestra furnished the accompaniment.

Joseph Levy, president of the congregation gave the address of welcome. Dr. S. N. Deinard of Minneapolis, spoke on "The Glory of Modern Israel" and "Temples of Our Nation."

Rabbi A. H. Kahn, pastor of the congregation, gave the dedicatory address in which he reviewed the growth of the congregation and the struggles which resulted in the erection of the building.

Rabbi D. C. Matt of Minneapolis, gave the closing prayer, which was followed by luncheon served in the basement. During the evening permanent pews were sold.

S. Goldberg is chairman of the board of directors, which includes J. Levy, J. Bernstein, L. Salet, H. Hertz, L. Horne, I. Rudawsky, S. Stein, S. Crosby, A. Rosenthal, M. Edelstein and H. Harris.

Salonika Jews Forced to Enlist.

In spite of the assurance given by the Greek Government that the Jews of Salonika will not be called upon to do military duties, it has now become known that all Jews of that town above the age of twenty-one are being mobilized for the army. The Jews of Salonika still regard themselves as Turkish subjects and feel great affection for the Turkish Government, under whose rule they have enjoyed all political freedom. Now they will be compelled to fight against the Turks by the decree of the Allies, who are practically the rulers in that town at present.
