

LEAVES DULUTH FOR LUDINGTON STATION

Cyrus H. Eshleman Resigns Position as First Assistant at the Local Weather Bureau.

Cyrus H. Eshleman, for more than two years first assistant to H. W. Richardson weather bureau forecaster, has resigned his position to take charge of the station at Ludington, Mich.

The change is in the way of a promotion, as it gives Eshleman an opportunity to expand in his chosen work.

Coming from Grand Haven, Mich., in 1914, he has served in the local weather bureau department with zeal and fidelity. As the man who gave the newspaper reporters their weather stories he was known for his accurate information and his cheerfulness in responding to a call at any time of day or night.

For the last week he has been predicting a cold wave that was distinctly present yesterday; and it remains to be seen what his successor can do to relieve the situation.

Eshleman will be in the city about a week before leaving for his new post.
