One hundred and sixty students will this year complete the graduating class of the high school. Entering as first freshmen year...

boys and girls, all of whom have attained a normal standing in all marks. Not generally composed of "sharks" and not composed of "dunks," it has made a record as a normal class that is bound to stand on the records of the school, unsurpassed for a long time.

Viewed from the social standpoint the class of 1913 ranks up the best. Its social affairs will long be remembered among high school students and graduates, as the brightest and best of any, due mostly to the capability and good will of the girl members.

of patronage by the members of the class, and the standard of these studies have been raised materially since they began these branches. Taking everything into consideration the outgoing class has a record to be proud of, and one that will stand for many years.

"Not content with overcoming obstacles that frequently arise, the members of the 1913 class are always looking for more problems to solve. It seems that the more they solve, the more they urge themselves on to meet others."
