

PRIZE WINNERS IN GARDENING ANNOUNCED

Canning Demonstration Attracted an Interest- ed Audience.

"How long do you cook the carrots before taking them off the stove?" and "How long should you blanch peaches when canning?" are some of the questions asked by mothers of Duluth yesterday when they saw little girls and boys giving canning demonstrations at the school exhibit at 410 West Superior street. All the schools of the eastern part of the city were represented and mothers whose domestic knowledge was canning-less left with determination to can just such peas, beans and other vegetables as they had seen exhibited.

The most interesting part of the work was the demonstration given by the boys—and they haven't had any K. P. experience either. The boys giving the demonstration last night were Albert Desanto, Albert Stewart, Arthur Day and William Annand. In the afternoon a demonstration was given by Isabelle McKnight, Charlotte Campbell, Roberta Perrin and Grace Talbot.

Mothers who saw the demonstration and exhibit of canned products yesterday were unanimous in declaring the exhibit the grandest ever held in Duluth. In many of the jars each bean was exactly the same size and it all showed the careful and conscientious work of the canners and cannerettes.

C. H. Schopmeyer has had charge of the school garden work and the garden supervisors have been Miss Laura Woodward, Miss Lillian Johnson, Miss Helen Matlock, Mrs. Katherine Stephens, R. K. Potter and M. D. Sutton. Miss Marie Tims has had charge of the canning for the schools in the eastern part of Duluth.

The judges of the exhibits were Mrs. Herbert A. Dancer, Mrs. Julius H. Barnes and William C. Sargent. The prizes for the best baskets of vegetables were awarded Vaughn Randall of the Jackson school, Besie Sclorow, Nettleton; Agnes Nesgoda, St. Stanislaus; Annabelle Wright, Munger; Alex Shebetsky, Franklin; Clarence Ottinger, Jefferson. Honorable mention for canned pickles was given Louis Signorelli, Washington junior high; Manson Crosby, Cobb; Bernice Olson, Munger; Josephine Fawcett, Cobb; Annabelle Wright, Munger; Alvin Solem, Munger; Goldier Cohen, Adams.
