

Police Arrest Alleged "Switch" Game Artist

The old "switch" game was put into play last night with the result that Harry Henderson, an alleged "sleight of hand artist," is occupying a cell at the city jail, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Henderson appeared at the store of M. Polinsky, 2728 West Second street, and, according to Sergeant Eli LeBeau, displayed an envelope containing a $20 bill. He sought change. Polinsky received the envelope minus the money, he told police. Patrolman Roy Halbert arrested Henderson a few hours later.
