Historic Beauty
Sophie de Witt, Countess Potocka, was a famous beauty, known chiefly from Anton Graff's pastel portrait of her made in Berlin, where she lived for some time and where she died. She was the daughter of a Greek shoe-maker of Constantinople. She married a Russian general and, after her divorce from him, married Count Stanislas Felix Potocki.

A Squelcher
In his life of Herbert Asquith, J. Alfred Spender tells of a bore at Oxford, who ended a long and tedious speech at a debating society by saying: "I may not be an orator, but I am a good churchman." One of his hearers commented: "The first part of that remark is obvious, the second of limited interest."

Most Enduring Monument
Monuments dot the earth, but most of us have to read the inscriptions to discover the person honored or the deed commemorated. Write your name with love and kindness on the hearts of men, and you will never be forgotten.—Grit.

Self-Conquest
One moment of self-conquest, one good action really done, one generous deed actually performed, yes, one effort to do right really made, has the seal of time put on it, and no power in heaven nor all the fires of hell can melt that wax from the eternal bond.—James Freeman Clarke.

Artistic Variations
Old English pottery cats always appear sitting up, never curled asleep in a ball as the Chinese and Japanese variety.

Mary Washington's Grave
A handsome monument has been erected on the site of the burial place of Mary Washington, near Fredericksburg, Va., and the ground is well cared for.

Not to Talk to
The adventurous traveler used a club in ancient times, too, but he didn't collect $300 for talking to it.—Los Angeles Times.

Uncle Eben
"Troubles," said Uncle Eben, "kin be laughed at. But a right kind of man don't take no such liberties wif 'em unless dey is strictly his own."—Washington Star.

Sunlight's Good Effect
Drying clothes outside in the sunlight, not sunshine unless bleaching is desired, has an effect on fabrics as good in its way as that which sunlight has on humans.

AND DON'T HESITATE

"Sometimes you have to hit a man to make him keep quiet, so that you can save him from drowning."
"Yes, and the time to do it is when he first begins to rock the boat."

Angora Wool
Domestic Angora wool is not very popular in the textile industry, since it does not last well. Practically all of the Angora rabbit wool used is imported.

Exodus Statistics
The number of people who left Egypt at the Exodus has been estimated at a total of 2,000,000, since only men fit to bear arms were enumerated at 800,000.

Thought for the Day
If your friend thinks your nature is very fine, don't try unceasingly to live up to what you feel is only his ideal! And that is how mutual affection builds up character. It is priceless.

Historic Colnage
"Pieces of eight" were coined early in the Seventeenth century at Amsterdam, the Netherlands then being under Spanish rule. They were worth 8 Spanish reals.

First Idea of Soul
The idea of an immortal soul imprisoned in the body appears for the first time, in a definite way, in the work of the poet Phocylides, born at Miletus in the Sixth century B. C.—Kansas City Times.

TOO MANY ARMS

"I'm always mixed up with some girl, although I try to use my head."
"Quit using your arms and you will be all right."
