ish Funeral.

The friends of the Altman family in Duluth will read with interest the following from the Houghton, Mich., Mining Gazette, concerning the late Mrs. Altman:

The remains of Mrs. Ada Altman, wife of B. Altman and one of the unfortunate women who lost their lives in the wreck of the steamer Bon Voyage, were found on the shores of Lake Superior about five miles from this city yesterday at noon. They were brought to this city last evening and are now lying at Bloy's undertaking establishment, from where the funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will be laid at rest in the Jewish cemetery at Lake View.

There is no possibility of a mistake in the identification of the remains. On the person were found papers which proved conclusively that it was Mrs. Altman. The location of the papers and money also showed that the unfortunate woman evidently prepared for the worst. In the stocking of the right leg was found the money, $60 in all, one 20-dollar bill and four ten dollars. This was done up in a handkerchief. In the other stocking a number of receipts were found wrapped up in a certificate membership in the order of the Lady Maccabees. The certificate was made out for a social membership in Duluth lodge, No. 1. Enclosed in this bundle was a bunch of paid bills, all made out in the name of B. Altman, the husband. These were in good condition.

The remains were in a bruised condition. They had evidently been in the water all the time since the fire and looked as if they had but recently been washed ashore. All but one hand was out of the water. The body was first noticed by a man named Bodette, who was on the shore looking for agates. He reported the find to the Calumet water works and Coroner Fisher and Undertaker Bloy left at once for the place. The body was about a quarter of a mile from the Tamarack water works and between that place and the Calumet and Hecla pumping station.

As soon as the justice was certain that the remains were those of Mrs. Altman he decided that no inquest would be necessary on account of one having been held at Hancock on the remains of other people who were in the disaster. The undertaker took charge of the remains after an examination and brought them to the city. A large number of the Hebrew colony viewed the body at the undertaker's last evening and they will have charge of the funeral. The husband of the unfortunate woman was here last evening. He is completely broken down over the affair, but was glad that the body of his wife had been recovered.
